ABOUT THE PROJECT

Remote working is the labour market model of the future. By 2025, 75% of the workforce will be made up of Millennials and Generation Z employees; both of which are more environmentally aware and committed to saving the planet and also prefer flexible working patterns. To attract the top talent from this next generation, employers will have to be willing to accommodate remote working or flexible working patterns. Remote working provides many benefits to employers, employees, governments and society in general. However, to be adopted en-masse so that it can support our economic & environmental recovery, it needs to be supported by tailored education and training materials that will build key competences in employers and employees so that they can adapt to remote working. REMOTE-CTRL project addresses these issues.

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

The REMOTE CTRL project will focus on:

- supporting managers to adapt their management style for a remote working environment.
- developing the remote working literacies of employees so that they can manage successful remote careers.
- supporting VET tutors and employers during their remote working journey.
